

INNOSPEC INC. ANTI-CORRUPTION POLICY

I. SUMMARY

In support of Innospec's core values, the Code of Ethics requires compliance with all applicable laws, including those prohibiting corruption and bribery. Amongst other laws, Innospec is subject to the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act ("FCPA"), the U.K. Bribery Act ("UKBA"), and the anti-corruption laws of the countries in which it does business. Although the application of these laws may be complex, their central purpose is simple: to regulate business behavior so as to prevent bribery and corruption and to punish corporate entities and individuals who fail to comply with these laws.

This Policy imposes four over-arching requirements.

First, individuals within the scope of this Policy may not offer, promise or provide a Thing of Value (as defined in section III) to any person, including Government Officials (as defined in section III), to improperly obtain or retain business or to secure an improper advantage in conducting business. Amongst other things, this first requirement prohibits the payment of bribes to win new contracts, to retain existing contracts, to expedite the processing of any official documentation (e.g. customs clearance or environmental certification) or to improperly influence any person.

Second, individuals within the scope of this Policy may not accept a bribe or anything of value in violation of this or any other Innospec policy, including the Code of Ethics.

Third, because Innospec may be held liable in certain circumstances for the corrupt conduct of Third Party Representatives (as defined in section II), Innospec will not appoint or work with any Third Party Representative which does not comply with the laws referred to in this Policy and unless and until that Third Party Representative has been approved pursuant to Innospec's due diligence process. .

Fourth, individuals within the scope of this Policy must ensure that accurate books and records are maintained, detailing each expenditure of Innospec funds or Things of Value relating to Innospec business.

Annex D contains answers to frequently asked questions about this Policy, the FCPA and the UKBA. If, at any time, you have any other queries about this Policy, you should contact Innospec's Vice President, General Counsel and Chief Compliance Officer ("GC/CCO") or Legal Compliance Team (collectively "Legal Compliance").

II. SCOPE

This Policy applies to Innospec Inc.'s board of directors ("Board") as well as all officers, directors, employees (permanent and temporary) and contract employees of Innospec Inc., and all of its subsidiaries and affiliated companies ("Innospec") wherever located and regardless of citizenship (collectively "Employees"). This Policy's general principles and prohibitions also apply to agents, distributors, consultants, joint venture partners, and all other third parties acting for or on behalf of Innospec wherever located and regardless of citizenship (collectively "Third Party Representatives").

Innospec recognizes that its Board, Employees and Third Party Representatives are citizens of many countries and that its operations are subject to many different laws, customs and cultures and Legal Compliance may therefore issue specific anti-bribery guidelines to conform to local laws in some countries. Any such guidelines will be at least as strict as the minimum standards set out in this Policy.

The Board, all Employees and Third Party Representatives must read and comply with this Policy.

III. DEFINITIONS

The following definitions apply throughout this Policy:

- "Thing of Value": means anything that the recipient might value, such as a financial or other advantage, including cash, gifts, gift cards, items with Innospec's logo, electronic equipment, clothing, meals, entertainment (for example, concert, theater, sport or other similar event invitations), travel, accommodation, transportation, loans, use of property or equipment, charitable donations, political contributions, medical treatment and job or internship offers.
- "Government Official": means any official or employee of federal, state, provincial, county or municipal governments or any department or agency thereof; any officer or employee of a company or business owned in whole or in part by a government ("State-Owned Enterprise"); any officer or employee of a public international organization (for example, the World Bank, United Nations or the European Union); any foreign political party or official thereof; or any candidate for political office. Government Officials include officials at every level of government, regardless of rank or position.

Many governments operate in commercial areas through State-Owned Enterprises, particularly in industries relating to energy, extraction, mining, defense, aerospace, banking, telecommunications and healthcare. Even if a government is only a minority owner of an entity, that entity may be a State-Owned Enterprise if the government has substantial control over its operations. Importantly, the ownership and control structure of an entity is not always apparent, and U.S., U.K. and other regulatory authorities may consider an entity to be a State-Owned Enterprise (and its employees to be Government Officials) for purposes of enforcing anti-corruption laws, even if local law does not view that entity as state-owned. Any questions or concerns about whether an entity is a State-Owned Enterprise should be brought to the attention of Legal Compliance.

IV. PROHIBITION OF BRIBERY

Under no circumstance shall any Board member, Employee or Third Party Representative offer, promise or provide (or authorize, permit or conspire to provide) a Thing of Value to any person:

- to improperly obtain or retain business or an advantage in the conduct of business;
- to induce the recipient to perform some function improperly; or
- while knowing or believing that the recipient is not legally or contractually permitted to accept such Thing of Value (because of employment obligations or otherwise); or
- while intending, knowing or suspecting that the recipient will themselves offer, promise or provide a Thing of Value to any other person for any of the aforementioned purposes or in any of the aforementioned circumstances.

It is a violation of this Policy to intentionally disregard, or to be willfully blind to, the offering or making of an improper payment. Further, Board members, Employees and Third Party Representatives may not do indirectly what this Policy forbids them from doing directly.

This Policy also forbids “facilitating” or “grease” payments (e.g. payments made to speed up a transaction or process) for routine action by Government Officials. If any Board member, Employee or Third Party Representative feels compelled to make a payment otherwise prohibited by this Policy (e.g. to escape an imminent threat to their health or safety) the Board member, Employee or Third Party Representative must report such payment and provide all relevant details regarding the incident to Legal Compliance as soon as practicable. Innospec shall accurately record all such payments in its books and records.

Payment of reasonable, proportionate and bona fide expenses incurred by a third party may be permissible only if directly related to:

- the promotion, demonstration or explanation of Innospec’s products or services; or
- the execution or performance of a contract.

Legal Compliance approval in writing is required for reimbursement of certain Third Party Representative expenses (refer to Innospec’s Third Party Representative Compliance Approval User Guide available on the intranet or from Legal Compliance). In addition, all such payments or reimbursements must be properly documented in Innospec’s books and records and where applicable must comply with Innospec’s expense policies.

V. PROHIBITION OF PASSIVE CORRUPTION

Innospec strictly prohibits passive corruption (i.e. the improper receipt of a Thing of Value). Board members, Employees and Third Party Representatives must not accept or receive, or agree to accept or receive a Thing of Value:

- in violation of Innospec's Code of Ethics, this Policy or (in relation to Board members and Employees) any other Innospec policy; or
- in connection with the recipient's or any third party's improper performance of some Innospec related activity or function (i.e. a failure by the recipient or third party to perform the related activity or function in good faith, impartially or in accordance with a position of trust).

VI. GIFTS, MEALS, OTHER HOSPITALITY, CHARITABLE DONATIONS AND SPONSORSHIPS

A. Gifts, Meals and Other Hospitality

All gifts, meals and other hospitality (including travel) offered by or on behalf of Innospec to any person must be appropriate and reasonable under the circumstances, should not be extravagant or lavish and should be given transparently and be permissible under applicable law. Expenditure should be related to the promotion, explanation or demonstration of Innospec's products or services and any that creates even the appearance of impropriety may violate this Policy.

B. Charitable Donations

Innospec is committed to supporting the communities in which it does business, and permits reasonable donations to charities. However, charitable donations may violate applicable anti-corruption laws if they are made to improperly influence any individual. Accordingly, Board members and Employees may donate on behalf of Innospec only to bona fide charities for proper charitable purposes after obtaining approval from Legal Compliance. Legal Compliance will require confirmation that the proposed recipient of the donation is indeed a bona fide charity.

C. Political Contributions

Board members and Employees shall not make political contributions on behalf of Innospec to improperly influence any political candidate, political party, campaign committee or Government Official. Before making any political contribution on behalf of Innospec, Board members and Employees must secure the approval in writing of Innospec's Chief Executive Officer and GC/CCO. No Board member or Employee may seek or receive reimbursement from Innospec, directly or indirectly, for any political contribution made in their personal capacity.

D. Sponsorships

In certain situations, Innospec may sponsor events or activities hosted, organized, coordinated and/or supported by third parties. For the purposes of this Policy, sponsorships include any contribution in money or in kind by Innospec towards any such event or activity in return for an opportunity to advertise the Innospec brand by, for example, displaying the Innospec logo or otherwise publicizing Innospec during the event or activity (e.g. by mentioning Innospec's support during the opening or closing addresses of a conference). Legal Compliance will require information regarding the event or activity being sponsored and the advertising opportunity.

E. Reporting and Approval Requirements

Innospec's reporting and approval requirements for all gifts, meals and other hospitality (including travel), charitable donations and sponsorships are set out in the Gifts, Hospitality, Charitable Donations and Sponsorships Policy which is accessible on the intranet or from Legal Compliance. Note that when approvals are required, they are required before the gift, hospitality, charitable donation or sponsorship is offered, given or received except in limited circumstances.

VII. THIRD PARTY REPRESENTATIVE DUE DILIGENCE PROCEDURES

No person or entity may be authorized to represent or act on behalf of Innospec until that person or entity is reviewed and approved by Legal Compliance and retained by written agreement with Innospec.

A. Pre-Engagement Due Diligence regarding Potential Third Party Representatives

Whenever Innospec intends to engage or retain an agent, distributor, marketing consultant, lobbyist or other third party that will act for or on behalf of Innospec, Legal Compliance will conduct due diligence on the prospective Third Party Representative to determine amongst other things their reputation, beneficial ownership, professional capability, credibility and history of compliance with applicable anti-corruption laws. Legal Compliance will specify the information to be obtained during such due diligence, will review the due diligence results and, if appropriate, approve engagement of the Third Party Representative.

Unless otherwise authorized by the GC/CCO in writing, no Third Party Representative may make any sales, receive any commission or other payments or provide any services to or on behalf of Innospec, including the marketing or promotion of Innospec or its products, until Legal Compliance has issued an email confirming its approval to trade. Innospec's due diligence processes and procedures are set out in the Third Party Representative Compliance Approval User Guide which is accessible on the intranet or from Legal Compliance.

B. Contracting with Third Party Representatives

The prior approval of Legal Compliance (in addition to any other approvals required by other Innospec policies) is required for all:

- contracts with Third Party Representatives (including joint venture and partnership contracts);
- shareholder contracts; and
- contracts for the acquisition of entities or of for the whole or substantially the whole of an entity's business assets.

All such contracts shall contain anti-corruption provisions substantially similar to those contained in Annex C unless otherwise approved in writing by Legal Compliance. No trade may be conducted and no payment may be disbursed by Innospec under any such contract until such approvals have been obtained.

The Commercial Legal team ("Commercial Legal") maintains standard forms for these types of contracts and will provide templates upon request. These templates must be used for all relevant contracts and the final version must be approved by Commercial Legal and Legal Compliance before signature.

C. Post-Engagement Monitoring of Third Party Representatives

After Innospec retains a Third Party Representative, relevant Employees (in particular the business manager responsible for managing the relationship) must continue monitoring the Third Party Representative's on-going activities for, amongst other things, any anti-corruption red flags or concerns. If any Board member or Employee knows or reasonably suspects that a payment or promise of a payment prohibited by anti-corruption laws or this Policy has been, is being or may be made by a Third Party Representative for or on Innospec's behalf, Legal Compliance must be advised immediately. Board members and Employees must use reasonable efforts to prevent such payments or the promise of such payments from occurring.

D. Mergers & Acquisitions

In pursuit of its corporate strategy, Innospec may be involved in merger or acquisition activity. Whenever Innospec pursues a merger with, or the acquisition of, any business entity, the due diligence process associated with the proposed merger or acquisition shall include a due diligence inquiry regarding the target's compliance with applicable anti-corruption laws. Legal Compliance shall specify what information must be obtained during such due diligence, and shall review and approve in writing the results of such due diligence. Following the merger or acquisition, Innospec shall wherever possible implement appropriate anti-corruption compliance policies and internal controls or, in the case of minority investments, shall make reasonable efforts to encourage the entity to adopt such policies and controls.

E. Joint Ventures

Whenever Innospec wishes to establish a joint venture, it shall conduct due diligence on the prospective joint venture partner or partners to determine amongst other things their reputation, beneficial ownership, professional capability, credibility and history of compliance with applicable anti-corruption laws. Legal Compliance will specify the information to be obtained during such due diligence and shall review and approve in writing the results of such due diligence.

F. Red Flags

A key aspect of anti-corruption-related due diligence and post-retention monitoring is the identification of “red flags” which are anything that may indicate unethical or corrupt business conduct. A non-exhaustive list of red flags, including any identified by the U.S. Department of Justice, is at Annex B (“Red Flags”). All due diligence investigations conducted by Innospec must consider potential Red Flags.

VIII. ACCOUNTING ISSUES

A. Accurate Books and Records

Innospec must make and keep accurate books, records and accounts which, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of Innospec’s assets, no matter the purpose or size of the transaction or disposition. Accordingly, neither Board members nor Employees shall create or make payments from “off-the-books” accounts or “slush funds”.

To maintain accurate books and records, Board members and Employees must:

- create business records, including general ledger and journal entries and expense reports that accurately reflect the true substance of the underlying transaction or event; and
- sign only documents, including contracts, that the Board member or Employee is authorized to sign and that they believe to be accurate and complete.

Additional information may be found in Innospec’s Group Accounting Standards Handbook, accessible on the intranet.

B. Internal Controls

Innospec maintains a system of internal accounting controls sufficient to provide reasonable assurances that, among other things, transactions are executed in accordance with Innospec’s accounting standards and generally accepted accounting principles.

C. Minority-Owned Subsidiaries

Innospec shall, in good faith and to the extent reasonable in the circumstances, use its influence on any entity in which Innospec has 50% or less of the voting power of the entity, to cause the entity to maintain proper records and internal accounting controls.

IX. ANTI-CORRUPTION CONTROLS

ANNEX D FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Policy Scope

Innospec subsidiaries are incorporated in various countries. Why are the FCPA and the UKBA (collectively, “U.S. and U.K. Anti-Corruption Laws”) nevertheless applicable to all Employees and Third Party Representatives worldwide?

Innospec is listed on the NASDAQ in the United States and maintains executive offices in the United States and United Kingdom and thus is subject to both the U.S. and U.K. Anti-Corruption Laws.

In addition, the FCPA particularly targets illegal activities outside the United States. Individuals outside the U.S. may be subject to U.S. jurisdiction with regard to the FCPA because they are employed or engaged by Innospec. Individuals also may be directly subject to U.S. law as U.S. permanent residents or U.S. citizens or because the relevant business is a U.S. listed securities issuer or incorporated in the United States.

If there is a conflict between U.S. law and the anti-corruption laws of a different jurisdiction, which takes precedence?

Innospec’s Anti-Corruption Policy incorporates the requirements of various nations’ anti-corruption laws, including the FCPA and UKBA. As a Board member or Employee, you must comply with Innospec’s Anti-Corruption Policy. If you have a question about a specific scenario in which you believe there is a conflict between the laws of two nations, contact Legal Compliance.

Commercial Bribery

If the FCPA relates to bribing Government Officials, does this mean that bribing someone who works for a private company is okay?

No. Improper payments between the employees of private companies - sometimes called “commercial bribery” - is prohibited by the UKBA and the anti-corruption laws of many countries. Commercial bribery also violates this Anti-Corruption Policy, see PROHIBITION OF BRIBERY, above, and Innospec’s Code of Ethics, which states at Section 8: “No individual or entity shall, in acting for or on behalf of Innospec, offer, promise, give or accept anything of value which is intended to influence any act or business decision, secure any improper advantage or compromise independent judgment”. For guidance on hospitality and gift-giving among private company employees, refer to Innospec’s Gifts, Hospitality, Charitable Donations and Sponsorships Policy available on the intranet or Innospec’s website or from Legal Compliance.

Bribery of Government Officials

Could payments to employees of a State-Owned Enterprise violate anti-corruption laws?

Yes. As set forth in the PROHIBITION OF BRIBERY section above, payments to employees of State-Owned Enterprises may violate anti-corruption laws and this Policy. Anti-corruption regulators take the position that employees of State-Owned Enterprises are Government Officials of the governments that own such State-Owned Enterprises. Importantly, U.S. and U.K. Anti-Corruption Laws may view a company as state-owned, and its employees as Government Officials, even if local law does not view that entity as state-owned. If you have questions about whether any third party is a State-Owned Enterprise, or any individual is a Government Official, please contact Legal Compliance.

Could payments to family members, friends or other individuals associated with a Government Official violate anti-corruption laws?

Yes. Offering, promising or giving any Thing of Value directly or indirectly to a Government Official may violate anti-corruption laws and this Policy (See PROHIBITION OF BRIBERY above). Offering, promising or providing gifts or any Thing of Value to a Government Official's family, friends or associates may violate applicable anti-corruption laws for two reasons. First, the family member, friend or associate may serve as a conduit to the Government Official. Second, the Government Official may be improperly influenced by the offer, promise or provision of gifts or any Thing of Value to those close to the Government Official.

Business with State-Owned Enterprises/Government Officials

May Innospec conduct business with State-Owned Enterprises/Government Officials?

Yes. Anti-corruption laws do not prevent Innospec from engaging in legitimate business transactions with Government Officials or State-Owned Enterprises, such as contracting for the delivery of various goods and services. Anti-corruption legislation is focused on preventing corrupt payments to Government Officials that are made to unfairly secure business opportunities. Innospec, however, must be particularly vigilant in supervising these business transactions.

Third Party Representatives

Is Innospec liable for the acts of its Third-Party Representatives?

Yes. Innospec may be liable for bribes made by its Third Party Representatives if Innospec had prior knowledge of or had reason to suspect that bribes had been or were being offered, promised or paid. If Innospec, its Board members or any of its Employees "turned a blind eye" to the corrupt conduct of Third Party Representatives, or ignored reasonable suspicions of such corrupt conduct, this could lead to a violation of anti-corruption laws by Innospec itself and/or its Board or Employees. Board members and Employees have a duty to remain vigilant and to report all Red Flags to Legal Compliance.

Why do distributors present a corruption risk for Innospec given that they do not act on the Company's behalf like agents or consultants?

Innospec may be liable under anti-corruption laws if one of its distributors makes an improper payment that Innospec knew or ought to have known about, or suspected and did not take appropriate steps to prevent. For example, in a 2004 enforcement action, U.S. regulators charged a company with FCPA violations when it knew or ought to have suspected that its distributors were making improper payments to facilitate sales of the company's products. Similarly, guidance from the U.K. Ministry of Justice cautions companies that the UKBA covers all persons connected to a company that could commit bribery for or on behalf of a company, regardless of formal title or category.

When evaluating whether to retain a sales agent in a certain country, the candidate claimed proudly to be the brother of the Minister of Industry. Is this a red flag?

Yes, for two reasons. First, the candidate may be a close relative of a Government Official who is in a position to "assist in obtaining or retaining business," a key element of bribery under the anti-corruption laws. Innospec would need to ensure that the agent, if retained, does not seek to corruptly influence his relative on Innospec's behalf. Second, the candidate's proud claim about his relation may suggest that he views this relationship as an asset for assisting Innospec in obtaining or retaining business. Risks relating to anti-corruption laws are heightened because of this candidate's proximity to a Government Official, and you should consult with Legal Compliance about the best way to proceed.

What should I do if I have a suspicion that a Third Party Representative is engaged in corruption?

It is a violation of this Policy to intentionally disregard, or to be willfully blind to, the offering, promising or making of an improper payment by anyone (See PROHIBITION OF BRIBERY above). Further, under anti-corruption laws such as the FCPA, an individual is deemed to have known about illegal conduct if he or she was aware of a high probability of its existence and yet consciously and intentionally avoided confirming that fact so that he or she could deny knowledge. "Turning a blind eye" or "burying heads in the sand" is not an option and will not be accepted by regulators as an excuse. Accordingly, as explained in the Reporting section of this Policy, Board members and Employees who know of or suspect a potential violation of any provision of this Policy or applicable anti-corruption laws should report those concerns immediately in accordance with section XI (ANTI-CORRUPTION CONTROLS) part D of this Policy or Innospec's Reporting Corporate Governance Concerns Policy which is accessible on the intranet or Innospec's website or from Legal Compliance.

Facilitation Payments

Is even a small facilitating (or "grease") payment prohibited by anti-corruption laws?

Yes. Even a very small payment, if made for the wrong reason or in the wrong way, can violate anti-corruption laws. For this reason Innospec's Anti-Corruption Policy prohibits all such “facilitating payments” except in very narrow circumstances (e.g. where personal health or safety is at risk or with the express permission of Legal Compliance).
